NEW YORK, June 12.—Charles E. Hughes, in response to questions put to him today by newspapermen in regard to his attitude toward the support offered him by the German-American element, said it was "one of undiluted Americanism."

"I stated my position very clearly," said the Republican Presidential candidate, "in my telegram to the convention. My attitude is one of undiluted Americanism and anybody that supports me is supporting an out and out American and an out and out American policy, absolutely nothing else."

Mr. Hughes detailed his statement on "undiluted Americanism" in response to repeated requests of interviewers and in the face of his previously announced determination to say nothing further on the issues of the day until his formal notification of nomination. He met the correspondents by appointment and after discussing his plans informally for a few minutes detailed the statement standing in a group of about 40 newspapermen and other callers.

Mr. Hughes probably will start early on his speaking tour. "These and other details, however, yet remain to be decided, including the naming of a national chairman. Many of Mr. Hughes' callers today suggested candidates, but the final decision will not be made, in all probability, until Mr. Hughes confers with a subcommittee from the national committee."

WILSON AT WEST POINT

WEST POINT, June 12.—President Wilson, making his first appearance since the Presidential inauguration today before the West Point cadets, discussed preparedness, militarism, Americanism, the causes of the war in Europe, peace, the Monroe doctrine, divided allegiance and the ideals of America. He declared it is the present imperative duty of the United States to be prepared, adding, "militarism is going to know that when America speaks she means what she says."

The President said the United States should not be a blustering nation, a nation with "a chip on its shoulder," but a calm nation which will withhold its hand as long as possible and strike only for victory.

The President's address ran through almost the entire list of subjects discussed by former Justice Hughes in his telegram accepting the Republican nomination and he declared the United States is ready to join with other nations to see the kind of justice it believes in given.

Shaking his finger emphatically, the President told the graduates of the military academy and a large audience that nobody who does not put America first can be tolerated. He added, however, that true Americans should get a good example.

The President declared the present war did not come by accident but that it had to come. The United States wants nothing from Europe he said and there is nothing she wants which she must get by war. He sounded a warning that no man can tell what the next day will bring forth in the world's events.

May and Council WillDON DRESS SUITS FOR THE BIG PREPAREDNESS PARADE

Added impetus was given to the plans for the big patriotic celebration to be held on Flag Day when Mayor Marietta announced that City Council would lead the dress-suit section of the parade. Though several of the councilmen did not seem to relish the costume idea, Mr. Marietta forestalled any opposition by threatening the imposition of a $5 fine on the soldiers who do not wear the evening dress. Councilman Dugan then expressed a desire to compromise, agreeing to the dress suit, but feeling that he could not borrow a plus hat. It was suggested that the minister show in town might be able to help out, and the mayor offered to lend stovepipes from his own personal store to those members not fortunate enough to possess them.

Council is heartily in favor of the plans, and members last night expressed the hope that every man, woman and child in Connellsville would turn out on Flag Day and show some of the old-time patriotic spirit.

Mayor Marietta today issued the following proclamation:

Press That Democrats Write Some
Bill House Planks Into Their Platform; Refuses Proxy.

ST. LOUIS, June 12.—William J. Bryan, newspaper reporter from Nebraska, arrived here today to "cover" the Democratic national convention. He asserted most emphatically that his reportorial role will be his first interest. But the former Secretary of State has a new treaty to propose to other Democratic leaders—a pact between the Democrats and Progressives to induce most of the Bill Moore to support the Democratic ticket next fall.

"Now is the opportune time for the Democratic party to get most of the Progressives," he said as he reached his hotel. "The Progressives were not at all satisfied with the result of the convention," he continued, "I believe the time is ripe for the Democrats to secure a large part of the Progressive vote."

"They are closest to us in sympathy anyway, you know," Mr. Bryan added. He indicated that this might be largely accomplished by the writing of the Democratic platform with Progressive planks that would appeal to the Bill Moore.

I have no claim except to report this convention, was his cryptic answer when asked if he would address the convention or appear before the resolutions committee in behalf of peace and anti-military planks.

When Mr. Bryan arrived few Democratic leaders were out of bed, but he held an impromptu reception in the hotel lobby and with difficulty made his way through a crowd of handshakers to his room. Later Mr. Bryan made the following statement:

"I have come to the convention as a newspaper correspondent and do not expect to take any official part in it. Having been defeated for delegate in my own state I will not accept a seat on the floor of the convention as an alternate from Nebraska, nor accept a proxy from any other state."

By Associated Press.

LONDON, June 12.—Great crowds lined the streets today in the vicinity of St. Paul's Cathedral and stood for hours in the rain awaiting the arrival of King George, Queen Mary and Dowager Queen Alexandra for the memorial services for Field Marshal Kitchener.

No troops lined the streets through which the royal party was to pass and there was no guard of honor. A feature of the service was the part taken by the band of Royal Engineers and the drummers of the Irish guard, of which corps Lord Kitchener was honorary colonel.

MORE GERMAN GAINS

BERLIN, June 12.—A further advance on the Verdun front near Fort Douaumont was announced today by the war office.

British troops have begun a movement against German positions southwest of Ypres. The announcement continues:

"The army of General von Bothmer repulsed completely an attack made by the enemy on the Stipa, west of the River Sambre. A Russian aeroplane was downed by a German aviator in an aerial battle. The pilot and the observer, the latter a French officer, were captured."

TURKS MAKE PROGRESS

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 12.—The offensive movement recently undertaken in the Caucasus by Turkish troops has won further successes, according to an announcement made by the war office today. It follows:

"In fighting on the right and left in the Caucasus, we took a number of prisoners and a great quantity of food, telephones and trench implements. Five hostile aeroplanes dropped about 50 bombs in Samsun yesterday. Some women and children were killed and houses were destroyed."

Commission Named by City CouncilTO ERECT CRAWFORD MONUMENT ON THE PUBLIC GROUNDS; BIG FUND SUBSCRIBED*H. P. Snyder Announces Contributions From Private Sources in Excess of $1,200 to Augment Fund Provided by State and City; Is Named Head of Commission,
With Worth Kilpatrick and E. B. Burgess as Fellow Members.

A commission to supervise the erection of the memorial tablet on the city hall lawn in honor of Colonel William Crawford was named by City Council last night, following the announcement of H. P. Snyder that the fund contributed by the state and city had been augmented by private subscriptions to the extent of $1,235. Acting upon the suggestion of Mr. Snyder that such a commission be named, Mayor Rockwell Marietta at once appointed H. P. Snyder as chairman, with Worth Kilpatrick and Rev. Ellis B. Burgess as associate members. A resolution submitted by Councilman John Dugan gives the commission authority to place the monument on the city hall lawn, at a spot to be determined upon later.

The selection of the commission was a particularly happy one. H. P. Snyder has long urged that Connellsville honor the memory of its married pioneer by erecting such a monument. That such action is soon to be taken is due entirely to the persistence with which he has agitated the movement. Worth Kilpatrick is a competent builder and will contribute the practical experience necessary to insure full value to the community for that which is expended. Rev. Ellis B. Burgess is probably more familiar with the history of the community than any other man. Rev. Burgess has not only carefully studied the early history of Western Pennsylvania, but has contributed liberally to the literature devoted to that period. Council appropriated $500 for the Crawford memorial fund on August 15, 1915, the State Historical Commission having set aside a similar amount. At that time, Mr. Snyder expressed the belief that a considerable sum could be raised by private subscription.

Mr. Snyder's letter to council follows:

"Last summer the State Historical Commission through Dr. George P. Donohoe, Secretary, offered to appropriate the sum of $500 for a bronze tablet commemorating the distinguished public services of Colonel William Crawford, Connellsville's First and Greatest Citizen, provided at least as much was contributed here for the purpose of erecting the necessary foundation and furnishing the granite memorial, which it was proposed to set up on the City Hall Square, the site of the Crawford house, which was once a frontier fort, being buried under the Pittsburg and Lake Erie Railroad fill on the West Side."

"August 9, 1915, council accepted the proposition of the State Historical Commission and appropriated to this purpose $500 from the Costing fund."

"In urging this action at the time I expressed the belief that additional funds could be raised for a more pretentious monument. Two months ago I undertook to raise additional funds by writing to personal friends. As a

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Declaring that the present rates on coal from the Connellsville district are unjust and unreasonable, the Connellsville Coal Tariff Association has filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission a petition asking that this discrimination in rates be considered in connection with the case which the commission is now hearing on the proposed increase of 15 cents a ton on coal from the Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky districts. A large part of the Central Freight Association territory, including parts of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan.

The commission today continued the hearing of this case, which operates in favor of Ohio coal as against that from the other bituminous fields. C. Andrade, Jr., of New York, and Edwin P. Grosvenor, of counsel for the Connellsville Coal Tariff Association, were present at today's hearing. Mr. Andrade declared that there is nothing geographical or geological reason for the differential of from 15 to 40 cents a ton which exists against Connellsville coal in favor of that from the Latrobe, Greensburg and Westmoreland districts.

The petition to the commission asks for the first place that in the present proceeding inquiry and investigation be made by the commission into the reasonableness of the differentials existing between the Pittsburgh-Tennesssee district (including the Pittsburgh, Westmoreland, Greensburg, Latrobe, Kanawha, Thacker and Elkton districts) on the one hand, and the Connellsville district on the other. In the second place, the petition asks the commission, if the above request cannot be granted, that no decision which the commission makes as to the proposed increases now sought by the carriers shall prejudice or operate to prevent the Connellsville Coal Tariff Association from urging "in another proceeding or proceedings before the commission or elsewhere that the said differentials now in force against the Connellsville district on coal and bound, west bound, and north bound are unreasonable and discriminatory."

"In the year 1913," says the petition, "the members of the Connellsville Coal Tariff Association mined 8,083,008 tons of coal, of which only 25,580 tons were shipped out of the district. In 1914 they mined 6,267,896 tons, of which 497,125 were shipped out of the district; but more than half of the amount shipped out was shipped by the company mining the same to its new by-product ovens located at Youngstown, Ohio."

SAY NEED IS GREAT*Councilman Pryce Continues
Fight to Lower Insurance Rates.*RENAMING OF STREETS ASKED*Postmaster Suggests Changes to End Existing Confusion and Matter is

The need of a building code was discussed at some length by City Council last night. Though no definite action was taken it is certain that the solicitor will shortly be called on to draft such a measure. Lately in this regard has caused the city and its residents thousands of dollars loss and permitted a penalty of 15 cents a thousand to be added to fire insurance rates.

Superintendent of Public Safety M. B. Pryce, who is making a valiant fight for a reduction in insurance rates by improving conditions in the city, reported that he was handicapped in his work by violations of the ordinance, especially that prohibiting the erection of frame buildings or additions in the fire traps. This ordinance has been violated so flagrantly in the past, he stated, that it is hard to enforce it now.

Instances like this, it was pointed out, emphasize the necessity of a building code, showing what materials may be used and what are prohibited, and compelling all prospective builders to submit plans of their structures to the city authorities before starting work.

Several alleged violations of the fire limit ordinance were referred to Mr. Pryce for consideration. One of these was the erection of frame structures on the north side of J. R. Wortman's house on South Pittsburg street. Mr. Wortman appeared before council and disclaimed any intention to violate the ordinance. It was a misunderstanding, he said, between himself and the mayor. He is willing to pull up iron steps, if necessary, he said.

Mr. Wortman asked council to provide a smaller tax duplicate book for use in his office. He said that the large books which were designed as permanent records for 10 years' assessment figures were too unwieldy for use in his office. He also said that there were errors in the carrying out of figures. The city clerk made a statement disclaiming responsibility for the errors. He said that it would take about two weeks to prepare a smaller book. The matter was finally settled, Mr. Wortman agreeing to make out the small duplicate book if the city would save tax statements and receipts printed for use of his office. Bids for these supplies are to be opened at the next meeting.

A request from Postmaster W. D. McGinnis that the city rename certain streets was referred to the street department. Mr. McGinnis said that it caused much confusion to the postal employees to have to decide what First, Second and Third and Eighth, Ninth and Tenth streets are meant, there being streets of those names on both sides of the river.

The running gear of the old fire wagon, being transformed into a motor truck, was sold to Stanley Provost of Farmington for $65, his being continued on page two

BUSY YEAR FOR THE LIBRARY
SHOWN IN ANNUAL REPORT

Miss Margaret Whitman, Librarian,
Statement to Trustees; Officers
Re-Elected.

At the annual meeting of the board of trustees of the Carnegie Free Library yesterday afternoon the old officers were re-elected, and the report of the librarian submitted and approved. No important business was transacted, only affairs of a routine nature being gone over.

The report of Miss Margaret Whitman, Librarian, showed that during the year ending April 30, 1916, a total of 72,624 books, periodicals, pictures and pamphlets were put in circulation. The number of books taken out by patrons numbered 62,537. Of these, 31,337 were read by adults and 31,200 by children. The books favored by the other people were mostly fiction while the juveniles ran up a big total in literature. The West Side station did good business while open, 8,063 books being distributed on that side of the river.

The largest daily circulation for the year was on March 6, 1916, when 515 books were taken out. The smallest circulation was on June 18, 1916, after school had closed, when only 51 books were borrowed.

During the year 559 books were added to the library. Of these 488 were bought, 618 were gifts and 55 were added by binding. The number lost or discarded was 550, leaving a net gain of 559. The number of books in the library on April 30, 1916 was 13,860.

The following officers were re-elected; President, J. C. McClenathan; Vice President, R. Marietta; Secretary, H. P. Snyder and Treasurer, L. F. Ruth.

With five left over from yesterday, 10 are today working on the streets and the loads of dirt being dumped into the East Park Addition hollow are increasing.

Six prisoners left forfeits, amounting to $30.50, and two refused to work. They were locked in the cells for five days. A man from Scotland arrested for driving an automobile while in an intoxicated condition left a $10 forfeit. A man was arrested for spitting on the streets and left a $3.50 forfeit.

AGED WOMAN RUN DOWN BYFORD ON BRIMSTONE CORNER; ESCAPES WITH SLIGHT INJURY

Run down by a Ford touring car driven by Miss Eva Wilson near Brimstone Corner about 4.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Mary Work, 62, of Elm Grove, escaped with slight injuries, notwithstanding the fact that the car knocked her down and passed over her body.

Mrs. Work was partly across Main street, going toward the Second National Bank corner when she suddenly decided to go back. In the meantime, Miss Wilson's car, which had come to a dead stop before passing the corner, started forward. Confused, the aged woman stood in her tracks and then grasped the radiator of the car. Although moving slowly, the car bowed over her and the wheels passed over her. J. L. Hyatt, manager of the Shaw Motor Company on the West Side, who was giving Miss Wilson a final lesson in how to operate the car, brought the machine to a stop and then went back to attend the injured woman. It was apparent that she was not seriously hurt, but she was placed in the machine and hurried to the Cottage State Hospital. There it was found her most severe injury was a contusion of the chest.

Mrs. Work exonerated Miss Wilson from blame, declaring that she would have escaped but for her confusion as the car approached.

Miss Wilson, who recently purchased the car, had driven about 200 miles on the country roads and was taking a final lesson running through the city, where traffic is heavier.

School Children; No Truant Officer

Substituting for regular teachers in the Connellsville schools is apparently not highly regarded as a course of training by the school board, as not one of the three young women who composed the substitute list the past term was elected to the grade schools at the meeting last night. The board went out into Dunbar township for three of the four who were chosen. For the past few years it has been the custom to name three of the most promising high school graduates as substitute teachers. These substitutes are supposed to attend a training school, for which a teacher is regularly employed. They are paid only for the time they actually teach, but are required to devote practically all their time to study. Although the impression is permitted to go forth that the young women who give the district the greater part of a term without pay may expect to be favored in the filling of vacancies, the three who served last year were given no recognition whatever by the board.

There was also a slight rift in the spirit of harmony which has prevailed in the board when Director Ralph K. Long brought up the matter of the recent salary readjustment. Long contended that as Principal F. R. Yoder of the West Side had not been given an advance in salary, although all of the other principals got theirs, the West Side man should be given the summer task of enumerating the school children. Superintendent of Schools S. P. Ashe, however, had other plans for the board and presented the names of Principals L. K. Miller and E. C. Miner. They served last year. They will receive three cents for every name recorded. It is a nice summer's job, netting about $80. Some of the board members explained that as all the other principals have had a chance at the work, there was no necessity for making a change this year.

No truant officer was elected, as the only application so far received was that of H. M. Smurr. Mr. Smurr is not endorsed by Superintendent Ashe, who suggested that the board defer action until a later date. P. P. Bass and several others desire to make applications, he stated.

Miss Sallie McEwan was elected a teacher in the high school to fill the place of W. W. Harris. Her salary is to be $85 a month. Miss McEwan has had two years' experience as a teacher and finished out the term here for Miss Francis Fred. She is a graduate of the Smith College and also a post-graduate of the University of Pittsburgh.

Miss Helen Humphries will become Latin teacher, filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Marie Kenney. Miss Humphries has also had two years' experience, teaching one year in the grade schools at Butler. After a term at college she taught a year at Springdale. Her salary was also fixed at $85.

Misses Grace Robinson, Kathryn O'Connor and Emma Metzger were elected to teach in the grades. Miss Minerva Kenner was elected sub-principal. The salaries of the teachers were placed at $55 and that of Miss Keffor as sub-principal was put at $65. Miss Robinson has had seven years' experience. Miss O'Connor four, Miss Keffor 19, and Miss Metzger 11 1/2.

The contract for brick for the new school building on the West Side was given to the Hay-Walker Brick Company of Pittsburgh. This company will deliver the bricks to Connellsville and the agent promised to get them here within ten days after the notice of the number wanted was received. The bricks are of a pattern viewed by members of the board who went to Pittsburgh recently for that purpose.

The board voted to exonerate the Methodist Protestant Church for all taxes for 1916.

Woman's Martyrdom.

How many men, think you, have any idea of the pain and misery endured by women of their own households, who suffer from this peculiar to their sex? They often see them smiling and trying to be cheerful, even while racking with pain. If every such woman would only be guided by the experience of thousands of others who have been restored to health by this grand old remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, much suffering might be avoided.—Adv.

DR. EDWARDS IS PRESCRIBING IT TO HIS PATIENTS

Prominent Georgia Physician Gives Master Medicine Tanlac His Unqualified Endorsement.

Dr. J. T. Edwards, of Fayetteville, Ga., one of the best-known members of the medical profession in the state of Georgia, makes a statement that will undoubtedly produce a profound impression throughout the country. "In my thirty years of active practice as a licensed physician in the state of Georgia," said Dr. Edwards, "I have never seen anything to equal Tanlac as a medicine to produce results. I hear people on all sides telling of the benefits they have derived from its use."

"Tanlac is simply the talk of my town. I have no hesitancy in recommending the medicine; and, as a matter of fact, I am prescribing it for my patients almost every day. 'People in all walks of life in and around our little city are giving endorsement to the medicine. Seldom a day passes that some one does not come to me and say something about the good results they are getting from the use of Tanlac.'

"Several unusual gains in weight have been reported by some of our most prominent people, and I have treated some stubborn cases of indigestion, catarrhal conditions, and organic disorders and secured splendid results with Tanlac."

Tanlac is now sold in Conneltsville exclusively by the Conneltsville Drug Co., where the premier preparation can be had.

Tanlac can also be secured in Dunbar at Dr. C. Eason's Drug Store.—Adv.

BUILDING CODE IS URGED IN COUNCIL; SAY NEED IS GREAT

the only bid. Three bids for fire for the new tank were received but the contract was not awarded, the matter being referred to Mr. Pryce.

An ordinance authorizing the employment of a stenographer to assist the superintendent of accounts and finance and the city engineer and fixing her salary at $30 a month for eight months, was introduced.

Councilman Duggan was directed to advise the mayor of the claim of Arno Blasey of the West Side for damages to his property caused by the Western Maryland railroad. Viewers have already awarded Mr. Blasey $500 damages.

Councilman M. B. Pryce reported seven alarms and six fires during May, the total loss being $1,675, of which $1,500 damage was caused at the home of Joseph Matray. The total fire loss for the first six months of the year has been only $7,530. Mr. Pryce reported, and if the year can be finished with only twice that amount the city will establish an enviable record.

A complaint from Joseph Tippman against paying sewer assessment on South Pittsburg street was referred to Mr. Duggan. Mr. Tippman said that he could not get drainage to the sewer in front of his house so he ran a long extension to the rear at considerable expense. In view of this, he said he ought not to be compelled to pay for the Pittsburg street sewer frontage.

Councilman L. L. West submitted no report of the financial standing of the city. Mr. West has made no report of the balances in the various funds since he took office and only once has there been any financial statement at all.

Councilman L. L. West submitted bids on a flag which was to have been purchased for Memorial Day. One was for $2.54 from a mail order house that gets lots of money from Conneltsville people. The other was for $3.85 from a Chicago company. Councilman Pryce didn't like the idea of getting lots of money from the mail order house, but Mr. West said you got good stuff from them and they take it back if it isn't right.

An ordinance authorizing the payment of $5,000 to the Conneltsville Garbage Company was passed finally. A plan of lots in the Newmyer addition was submitted by E. T. Evans and referred to the street department for a report.

Council will meet again on Friday night. All members were present at the meeting.

DDDDDDDDDD DDDDDDDDDDDDDDDDDDDDD DDDDDDD

Hill-hesitation is galling to your average driver. His sporting-blood boils when a 1910-Complex flivver past on the first long pull with apparent ease and matter-of-factness. Invariably he bawls-out his motor and labels it "a cheese." But—ten-to-one, the motor itself is guiltless. The real cause is faulty lubrication.

If your car does the hesitation on the grades, look first to the kind of oil you are using. The Atlantic Refining Company, the oldest and largest manufacturers of lubricating oils in the world, have produced a group of four motor oils that answer every lubrication question, under any and all driving conditions.

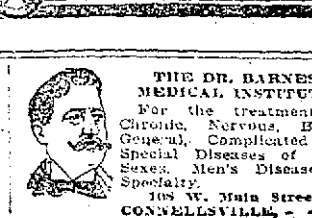

At least one of these four is the exact oil for your particular motor. Your garageman will advise you which to use to get 100-per cent results.

Atlantic Motor Oils bear the same relation to lubrication that Atlantic Gasoline—the accepted standard—bears to fuel. Advise with your garageman at once on this matter of motor oils. His long experience with Atlantic products and all kinds of cars will prove valuable to you.

Read up on this subject. We have published a handsome and comprehensive book about lubrication. It is free. Ask your garageman for it. If they cannot supply you, drop us a postal and the book will be sent you without charge.

Council Votes More Money on Account of the High Cost of Living: The Chairman's Guarantees Are to Meet: Settlements Held Convention.

Special to The Courier.
MOUNT PLEASANT, June 13.—The funeral of Mrs. James Braddock held from her late Walnut Street home yesterday was one of the largest ever held in town. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. L. E. Yahn, pastor of the First Baptist Church, assisted by Rev. Lawrence Reister of Scotland, Rev. W. T. Lyle of the United Presbyterian Church and Rev. T. C. Harper of the United Brethren Church. A quartet composed of Clara Burkholder, Mabel Elber, Robert Burkholder and William Duncan furnished the music. H. C. Frick was unable to attend but sent a blanket of American beauty roses on all velvet nine feet long and five feet wide, and a florist from New York to arrange them. Beside this the room was one mass of flowers. The pallbearers were John A. Vanden, John L. Shields, Dr. B. M. Loe, Robert Burkholder, Charles Clark and W. S. Weaver. The interment was private. At a meeting of the borough council last evening the salary of Chief of Police John Nugent was raised to $70 and that of police officers to $65, the police committee having decided that with the high cost of living $62.50 and $57.50 were not enough to pay their men.

CIVIC CLUB OF THE MILL TOWN HOLDS MEETING

Uplift Work and Summer Plans Discussed at a Lively Session.

PROBATION OFFICER SPEAKS

Tells Why Children Go Wrong and Urges Supervised Playgrounds, Freshly Laid Summer Home Will Open Thursday; Other News Notes.

Special to The Courier
SCOTTSBURGH, June 12. The Civic Club held its regular monthly meeting last evening in the school building. It was a splendid meeting, one that enthused every member present. Mrs. Sara M. Chester, probation officer of Greensburg, spoke on probation work, citing a couple of Sentinels cases that had been before her. She stated that the wrong kind of motion pictures, bad literature and parks and playgrounds not properly supervised, made work for the probation officer. She recommended special films for children, carefully supervised playgrounds and the proper kind of literature. A committee of which Mrs. Leo Skemp was made chairman was appointed to secure funds to provide seats for Loucks Park for the band concerts that will be given during the summer. A membership campaign was started. Every member is to bring a new member. Four new members were admitted last evening: Mrs. Leo Skemp and Miss Edith Humphries sang several selections.

TO OPEN SUMMER HOME.
The Junior Mission Band will open the Freshly Laid summer home on Thursday. Mrs. J. E. Hutchinson, Mrs. Sisley and Miss Emma Eicher will be in charge of the girls, who will number 25. Mrs. Lizzie Alder of Scottsdale has been employed as head cook and Miss Lulu King of Champion as assistant.

PHYSICIAN'S PRESCRIPTION FOR RHEUMATISM

Business and professional men of large means who have taken expensive baths at famous resorts and have spent money lavishly to rid themselves of the tormenting agony of rheumatism have turned to Rheuma and got well.

When Rheuma goes in, poisonous secretions go out. Nerve and muscle are used. Rheuma drives out the cause of rheumatism and speedily brings comfort and health, and most druggists will admit it.

Two bottles of Rheuma will cost you a dollar at A. A. Clarke or any druggist, and if this purchase does not bring you the freedom from pain and misery you expected, your money is waiting for you. —Adv.

OWENSDALE. June 12.—Children's Day was observed in the United Brethren church Sunday morning and evening. The church was crowded to its capacity at the evening service and many could not get standing room.

The program from beginning to end was well rendered and every part was carried out in a way that pleased the large audience. A feature of the evening entertainment was a quartet composed of Messrs. Rush, Taylor, Koser and Laing. The pastor, Rev. Burgess, gave a short address at the evening service. A very liberal offering was received for Sunday school work.

"Why Swear, Dear? Use 'Gets-It' for Corns!"

It's the New Plan. Simple. Sure As Fate. Applied in a Few Seconds.

"Why, John, I never knew you to use such language! I've told you several times it's no use to try those bandages, salves, tapes, plasters, and contraptions for corns. Here's some 'Gets-It,' it's just wonderful how easy, 'clear and clean' it makes any corn come right off. Takes but a few seconds to apply. It dries at once. Put your sock on right over it—there's nothing to stick or roll up, form a bundle of your toe, or press on the corn. It's painless, simple as rolling off a log. Now put away those knives, razors and scissors, use 'Gets-It' and you'll have a sweeter disposition and no more corns and calluses."

"Gets-It" is sold by druggists everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill. Sold in Connelville by F. H. Harmering and J. C. Moore.—Adv.

"You've surrounded it very neatly," laughed the promoter. "On a little time ago, I might have felt the necessity of convincing your scruples, but you've cut away all that foolishness. It's a little tough on our good old Uncle Samuel, I'll admit, but it'll be only a pin-prick or so in comparison to the money that is thrown away every time congress passes an appropriation bill. And, putting it upon the dead practical basis, Brouillard, it's your own and only salvation—personally, I mean. You've got to unload or go broke, and you can't unload on a falling market. You think about it and then get quick action with the wire. There is no time to lose."

Brouillard was looking past Cortwright and out through the plate glass window which commanded a view of the great dam and its network of forms and steelings.

"It is a scumbler's bet and a rather desperate one," he said slowly. "You stand to win all or to lose all in making it. Mr. Cortwright, the town is balancing on the knife edge of a panic at this moment. Would it go up, or down, with a sudden resumption of work on the dam?"

"The careless thinker would say that it would yell 'foul' and go up to the air so far that it could never climb down," was the prompt reply. "But we'll have the middle-line drop bandy. In the first place, everybody can afford to stay and boost while Uncle Sam is spending his millions or so right here in the middle of things. Nobody will want to pull out and leave that cow snailish in the second place, we've got a mighty good outside to use in any sure-enough case of hydrophobia your quick dam building may start."

"You could let it leak out that, in spite of all the burrah and such on the dam, congress is really going to interfere before we are ready to turn the water on," said Brouillard musingly and as if it were only his thought slipping into unconscious speech.

"Precisely. We could make that prop hold if you were actually putting the top courses on your wall and making preparations to drop the stopgates in your spillway."

"I see," was the rejoinder, and it was made in the same half-absent monotone. "But while we are still on the knife-blade edge . . . a little push . . . Mr. Cortwright, if there were one solitary righteous man left in Mirapolis—"

"There isn't," chuckled the promoter, turning back to his desk while the engineer was groping for the door knob—"at least, nobody with that particular brand of righteousness backed by the needful funds information. You go ahead and do your part and we'll do the rest."

CHAPTER XIX The Man on the Bank

Brouillard, walking out of Mr. Cortwright's new offices with his thoughts afar, wondered if it were by pure coincidence that he found Castner apparently waiting for him on the sidewalk. "Once more you are just the man I have been wanting to see," the young missionary began, promptly making use of the chance meeting. "May I break in with a bit of bad news?"

"There is no such thing as good news in this God-forsaken valley, Castner. What's your grief?"

"There is trouble threatening for the Cortwrights. Stephen Massingale is out and about again, and I was told this morning that he was filling himself up with bad whiskey and looking for the man who shot him."

Brouillard nodded unsympathetically. "You will find that there is always likely to be a second chapter in a book of that sort—if the first one isn't conclusive."

"But there mustn't be this time," Castner insisted warmly. "We must stop it; it is our business to stop it." "Your business, maybe, it falls right in your line, doesn't it?"

"No more in mine than in yours," was the quick retort.

"Am I my brother's keeper?" said the engineer pointedly, catching step with the long-legged stride of the athletic young shepherd of souls.

"Not if you claim kinship with Cain, who was the originator of that very badly outworn query," came the answer shortly. Then: "What has come over you lately, Brouillard? You are a friend of the Massingales; I've had good proof of that. Why don't you care?"

"Great heavens, Castner, I do care! But if you had a cut finger you wouldn't go to a man in hell to get it tied up, would you?"

"You mean that I have brought my cut finger to you?"

"Yes, I meant that, and the rest of it, too. I'm no fit company for a decent man today, Castner. You'd better edge off and leave me alone."

Castner did not take the blunt intimation. For the little distance intervening between the power company's new offices and the Niagara building he tramped beside the young engineer in silence. But at the entrance to the Niagara he would have gone his way if Brouillard had not said abruptly:

"I gave you fair warning; I'm not looking for a chance to play the Good Samaritan to anybody—not even to Stephen Massingale, much less Van Bruce Cortwright. The reason is because I have a pretty decent backland of my own to carry. Come up to my room if you can spare a few minutes. I want to talk to a man who hasn't parted with his soul for a money equivalent—it there is such a man left in this bottomless pit of a town."

Castner accepted the implied challenge eagerly, and together they ascended to Brouillard's offices. Once behind the closed door, Brouillard struck out viciously.

"You fellows claim to hold the keys to the conscience shop; suppose you open up and dole out a little of the precious commodity to me, Castner. Is it ever justifiable to do evil that good may come?"

"No." There was no hesitation in the denial.

Brouillard's laugh was harshly derisive.

"I thought you'd say that. No qualifications asked for, no judicial weighing of the pros and cons—the evil of the evil, or the goodness of the good—just a plain, blessed 'No.'"

The young missionary left his chair and began to walk back and forth on his side of the office desk.

"You want counsel and you are not willing to buy it with the coin of conscience," he said at length, adding, "It is just as well, perhaps. I doubt very much if I am the person to give it to you."

"Why do you doubt it? Isn't it a part of your job?"

"Not always. I am not your conscience-keeper, Brouillard. Don't misunderstand me. I may have lived a year longer than you have, but you have lived more—a good deal more. That fact might be set aside, but there is another. In the life of every man there is some one person who knows who understands, whose word for that man is the one only fitting word of inspiration. That is what I mean when I say that I am not your conscience-keeper. Do I make it clear?"

"Clarifying your premises—yes. Go on."

"I will. We'll paste that fear down and turn another. Though I can't counsel you, I can still be your faithful adviser. You have committed a great sin, Brouillard, and you are still committing it. If you haven't been the leader in the mad scramble for riches here in this abandoned city, you have been only a step behind the leaders. And you were the one man who should have been like Caesar's wife the one whose example counted for most."

"There is No Such Thing as Good News in This God-Forsaken Valley, Castner."

Brouillard got up and thrust out his hand across the desk.

"You are a man, Castner—and that is better than being a piglet," he asserted soberly. "I'll take back all the spiteful things I've been saying. I'm down under the boots of the horses, and it's only human nature to want to pull somebody else down. You are one of the few men in Mirapolis whose presence has been a blessing instead of a curse—who hasn't had a purely selfish greed to satisfy."

Again Castner shook his head. "There hasn't been much that I could do. Brouillard, it is simply dreadful—the hard, reckless, half-demonic spirit of this place! There is nothing to appeal to, there is no room or time for anything but the mad money chase or the still madder dissipation in which the poor wretches seek to forget. I can only try here and there to drag some poor soul out of the fire at the last moment, and it makes me sick—sick at heart!"

"You mustn't look at it that way," said Brouillard, suddenly turning comforter. "You have been doing good work and a lot of it—more than any other ordinary man could stand up under. I haven't got beyond seeing and appreciating, Castner; truly I have not. And I'll say this: 'If I had only half your courage . . . but it's no use. I'm in too deep. I can't see any farther ahead than a man born blind. There is one end for which I have been striving from the very first, and it is still unattained. I'm past help now. I have reached a point at which I'd pull the whole world down in ruins to see that end accomplished.'"

The young missionary took another turn up and down the room and then came back to the desk for his hat. At the leave-taking he said the only helpful word he could think of.

"Go to your confessor, Brouillard—your real confessor—and go all the more readily if that one happens to be a good woman—whom you love and trust. They often see more clearly than we do—the good women. Try it; and let me help where a man can help."

For a long hour after Castner went away Brouillard sat at his desk, fighting as those light who see the cause lost, and who know they only make the ruin more complete by struggling on.
